

Teachers and educators,

The Alabama Parent Teacher Association (AL PTA) is partnering with the Alabama Library Association (ALLA) to empower parents and students to use a variety of information resources available to them. Visit your local public library's website to learn more about the engaging resources for students across the state of Alabama.

Public libraries invest in our communities across the state by supporting literacy and connecting every member of the family. The AL PTA and ALLA want to support teachers and students with the information needed to find and use public library resources that serve to help make every child's potential a reality.

Public libraries across the state offer a variety of free services that include, but are not limited to:

- Children's books and eBooks appropriate from birth to graduation
- Knowledgeable librarians to provide needed information such as age-appropriate websites, encyclopedias, and other resources
- Online tutors and databases for research
- CDs, DVDs, and audiobooks
- Test preparation resources in print and electronic format
- E-content that includes downloadable books, movies, music, audiobooks, and more!

Everything is free with a library card that is available for all residents of Alabama. AL PTA and ALLA encourage you to contact your local library to find out more ways we can help teachers support students during this unique and difficult time caused by COVID-19.

Call your local public library and find out how they can help!
